

EFFORT TO TURN MINDS AGAINST LAW SAYS JUDGE

Court Opens Here This Morning With Spirited Charge to Grand Jury by Judge Forrester, Who Will Preside

DECLARES WITNESSES ARE INTIMIDATED, WON'T TESTIFY

"There is a systematic combination of the lawless element in Bell County which is spreading propaganda to poison the minds of the people against law and order, the officers and courts," declared Judge J. G. Forrester in a spirited charge to the grand jury at the opening of circuit court here this morning.

"This element has set itself up in bold defiance of the law. Witnesses are threatened with death if they testify and grand jurors are warned not to make indictments." Capt. Ben Golden stated that some magistrates in the county were afraid to prosecute cases because they had been threatened.

"Nearly all citizens say they are in favor of law enforcement but there are scarcely any who place this above private ends. They want the law enforced as long as it does not affect them, their friends or their neighbors."

"The judge went to considerable length in explaining the importance of jury service, saying that the very best and most efficient citizens should give their time to this work. 'You would not expect to hire bums and loafers to do your important work and conduct your business, neither do I want them here for to aid in administering the law.'"

He mentioned the classes of offenses which they are expected to investigate, namely, treason, felonies and misdemeanors. He emphasized particularly a thorough investigation of all liquor charges which would come before them.

He explained the statute which makes it a felony for two or more persons to band together for the purpose of intimidating another person, particularly stressing the fact that the crime exists at the time of such confederation and that the carrying out of the threats is not essential to constitute the offense.

Organization of the grand jury and the petit jury was completed today. A number of misdemeanor cases were called this afternoon and the witnesses recognized; it was thought that some of these cases would be reached late this afternoon.

ROAD BOND BILL TO BE DRAFTED

Principles of $50,000,000 Is to Be Decided on in Meeting December 1

By Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 19.—Principles which will be incorporated in the measure providing for submission to the voters of Kentucky of a $50,000,000 road bond issue are to be decided at a meeting of the executive committee of the Kentucky Good Roads Association here December 1. Attorneys will aid in the drafting of the measure so that its constitutionality will be assured, according to Eustace L. Williams, executive secretary.

It is planned to have the measure so framed as to assure that the expenditure of the fund will be safeguarded and that politics will play no part in its equitable distribution to every part of the State.

The members of the executive committee are Arthur D. Allen, president of the association; W. G. Gourley of Beattyville; Harvey White of Louisville; H. A. Summers of Elizabethtown; Harry Giovanel of Beattyville; Harvey Meyers of Covington; R. J. McBride of Louisville; Eustace L. Williams of Louisville; J. P. Carlier of Harlan; Woody Watson of Ashland; Martin Blackwell of Dixon; Clarence D. Evans of Frankfort; J. K. McDonald Jr. of Paducah and J. M. Forbes of Hopkinsville.

The executive committee has been in communication to decide on the attorneys who will draft the measure for which Bernard B. Bailey of Louisville has been employed to gather data on road laws of other states where road bond issues have been passed.

The views of the new members of the Legislature as well as the hold-over members have been asked in order to draft such a measure as will assure a majority of the legislators supporting it and providing that it be submitted to a referendum of the people next November.

Mr. Williams announced that railroads will be staged in many parts of the State. Among the prominent road men who will take part are C. M. Babcock of St. Paul, Minn., and Frank Page of North Carolina, brother of Ambassador Walker Hines Page.

Mrs. L. L. Hutchins of Lexington, president of the League of Women Voters of Kentucky, has accepted the chairmanship of the Eastern Division of the Kentucky Good Roads Association. Mrs. Hutchins is an advocate of good roads and her organization is working for passage of the $50,000,000 road bond issue.

FRANK BALL TRIAL STILL CONTINUES

Commonwealth Would Show He Fired First Shot That 2 Bullets Are Gave From Gun

Testimony is still being heard in the case, Commonwealth vs. Frank Ball, started in London last week and still continuing. A large number of Middlesboro and Pineville citizens are there, witnesses in the case. Ball has a large corps of lawyers.

The Commonwealth was to have finished up its testimony today and the defense to have begun theirs. The Commonwealth sought to bring out the fact that Frank Ball did shoot at the Pineville court house the time of the tragedy and they brought into court a man purporting to be his from which three bullets had been fired. They will also seek to prove that Frank Ball and Riley Ball came into the room where Clay Colson was and where the shooting took place for the purpose of making trouble.

What course the defense will pursue had not been learned here yet this afternoon. A great deal of interest centers in this trial because the participants are well-known Middlesboro men.

STATE AND COUNTY TAX BOOKS HERE ARE CLOSED

Though the state and county tax assessments for this district have not been completed, the books have been closed and local property owners must now have the assessments made at Pineville. The work at Pineville will be completed by the first of the year.

Assessments of coal properties of this district have not been made and this amounts to a considerable figure. W. H. Gagle, assessor for this district, is continuing the work by copying the last year's assessments in some cases.

LOCAL TEAM AGAIN VICTOR AT FOOTBALL

COMEDY PLAY WHEN ONE PLAYER TACKLES REFEREE

By Glen Heid.
The all-victorious Middlesboro football team sent the hitherto undefeated Big Stone Gap team to the dust Saturday afternoon to the tune of 38 to 0. Now all eyes are turned toward the Pineville-Middlesboro game Thanksgiving Day, the only remaining thing to contest the local team's record.

The game Saturday was an unusually interesting one. The field was in good condition and the weather cold enough to make play snappy. The snow-capped mountains in the distance made a fitting background for the November game. Cheering and boosting was evident on all hands and there were almost as many Middlesboro as Big Stone Gap people there. Vanbeber was star of the local team and Hamblen for the opponents.

The game play by play follows:

Penn married the daughter of Sir William Springett, whose name for a century preceding had been linked to this village, and whose blood has come down, in unbroken line, to the giver of the signpost. BREAK BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE AVERTED

Temporary Agreement Today in Council of Ambassadors—Situation Still Precarious if Germany Disregards Protest

GERMANS MUST ASSUME PROTECTION OF MISSION

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—An agreement in principle was reached by allies in the Council of Ambassadors here today and the break between France and England on the question of the attitude toward Germany was averted; at least temporarily. Agreement was reached at a secret meeting but it is understood it called for a protest to Germany against the lack of facilities Germany is furnishing for the work of the military control mission but without mention of what action will be taken by the allies if Germany failed to assure protection for the mission.

It is the impression in allied circles that the entente is saved for the moment but is still in a precarious situation and at the mercy of the first incident in Germany hostile to the mission. France, it is believed, will take action in that event and override all allied objection. Consequently, it is felt the crisis which might have led to a break was only postponed.

HISTORY OF HARLAN COUNTY SHOULD BE INTERESTING

Material of all kinds of any interest and facts that have any bearing on the growth and development of Harlan County are being compiled for a history of Harlan County which will require several months' work before completion.

Col. Charles G. Mutzenberg, author of "Famous Kentucky Feuds and Tragedies," in collaboration with J. T. Vowel, of the Enterprise staff, is preparing the book. Mr. Mutzenberg is doing the writing while Vowel is gathering the material and will draw the illustrations.

A history of Harlan county will be more or less popular—popular enough for the trouble of preparing it. And there is certainly plenty of material to be gathered to make an interesting account of the development of the county. Many native people have often wondered and asked why there has not been such a book written before.—Harlan Enterprise.

Children's children are the crown of old men, and the glory of children are their fathers.—Prov. 17:6

EDUCATIONAL WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

Educational week is being observed as a national occasion in the United States. To be carried through the schools and the columns of the press. The program is as follows: Sunday, day for God and country; Monday, Constitution Day; Tuesday, Patriotism Day; Wednesday, School and Teacher Day; Thursday, Literacy Day; Friday, Community Day.

Such a program is indeed a worthy one and one which should be considered seriously by the people of the United States. More and more we are realizing the value of education, not as a prize for all the winners of the world or as an absolute guarantee for success in life, but as a great preparation for life and a way for better understanding of things along life's way.

Education is not a matter of going to college and passing in the courses presented there. Education is an everyday matter, a school kept by experience in which every living mortal is a pupil. Some of us are sluggish and never pass above the first few grades because we do not heed our lessons. But there are many worthy pupils who study hard their lessons and make the best of all the opportunities presented to them.

There is no misapprehending the great benefit of education in school and college, where the young mind is directed by instructors (thoroughly trained each in his own subject). The student is taught the value of logical thinking, to discriminate between the true and the false. In short, he has the benefit of condensed experience and receives in tabulated form the education it would have taken him years of diligent application to hew out.

This education is a broad one and includes all the phases in which education in this day is so vital. In many places it is being emphasized as a civic duty. Here the schools are taking it up in a small way, the program, to be left to the individual teachers. Let us hope that results for reaching will accrue from this week, for education is sorely needed in the time which this program sets out.

INCOME TAXES AND BUSINESS

The immediate effect of Secretary Mellon's proposal for federal income tax reduction all along the line has been to send stocks up and give business a dose of optimism. The New York World, after sounding out business opinion all over the country, reports:

"The composite opinion is that Secretary Mellon has made a master stroke for the restoration of business and public confidence, and if backed up by proper congressional action with the same national welfare in view, it would afford probably the greatest stride in stabilization that has been taken since the war."

Lower income taxes naturally would stimulate enterprise of every kind, drawing more capital into active business and encouraging business management to do its best for the sake of the greater profit obtainable. And the big majority of people, whose incomes consist of wages or salary in the lower levels, would have more money left to spend—which fact in itself would be a powerful business stimulant.

All this, however, according to the secretary of the treasury, depends on whether or not congress votes a bonus to the service men. A bonus of any size, bankers and business men agree, would discourage business.

If this is the case, it looks like a flat choice between prosperity and dullness, or at best between greater and less prosperity. The bonus advocates, however, remain to be heard from as soon as they get their breath. The public is open to conviction by any reasonable argument, and will give a fair hearing to both sides. Congress should do the same.

Berton Braley's Poem

NOT SO LOUD!
Blow your own horn! Shout up, you tell,
The cock-eyed world that you are present!

Tell people you're alive and well,
A little dapp like that is pleasant.
But do not ever to it, boy,
Or folks will only grin and snicker.

They'll think that all you do is brag,
And that's a sign of a poor vision.
A little feeling makes you known,
It helps to get others you, you best.

But not too much and folks will sneer,
Gosh, but that fellow's a loud apoke!
Speak up and say your little piece,
But don't forevermore repeat it.

Be brief and to the point—then cease,
Or you will have the reader "Beat It!"
Blow your horn and sell your stuff,
You're good, so let the old world "Beat It!"

Then quit—at least for long enough
To let some other fellow blow it!

A Peculiar Accident

MIDDLESBORO, Nov. 19.—Ansel Perkins, 45-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Perkins, formerly of this place, met with a serious accident at about 10 o'clock, this week where the family no witness. The lad was descending the entrance when a school bus, playfully tipped him, and he fell, his head striking one of the stone steps. His skull was fractured and his tongue and eyes are paralyzed. He is in a critical condition.

George W. Harris, President of the White House, took it in the Cabinet Room. Sitting lasted 30 minutes, and strange to say every word came back marked "approved." Harris selected this at the best, in his judgment. The photo is copyrighted.

"I'm as strong as a lion!" boasted Billy Beard.

ONE day Billy Beard's cousin Billy Beard was talking to him. If your beard was talking to him, it would say, "You're a big boy, Billy Beard, but you're not as strong as a lion."

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

My dear John:

I had decided to never write you again unless some great crisis came into either your or my life. Because I think such a crisis has come into yours now is the reason I am writing you this letter.

You know that I do not go to moving picture shows. I have never allowed myself to be seen in one of these dens of iniquity. In fact it is the only thing over which dear Priscilla Bradford and I disagree.

She tells me that they are not as bad as I have been taught to believe and insists upon going once or twice a week to see them. She says they take her and yet herself. She comes home and tells me the stories most graciously and usually at the end, I can truthfully say that my opinion of them is not changed at all. They are always talking of things I would think to mention before a man. Only that I know dear Priscilla goes along and always looks at them in a spirit of pious pity, I would feel that I really did not understand the mind of the modern young woman.

The last picture which she saw has further confirmed me in this decision although it seems to me that if you should go and see it you would be convinced of what a terrible thing you have done in adopting a child that you know nothing about and giving it your honorable name.

THE LAST TIME I CAME O'ER THE MOOR

The last time I came o'er the moor,
And left Maria's dwelling,
What throes, what tortures passing
Were in my bosom swelling:
Condemned to see my rival's reign
While I in secret languish;
To feel a fire in every vein,
Yet dare not speak my anguish,
Love's veriest wretch, despairing, I
Fain, fain, my chime would cover:
Th' unweaving gown, the bursting
Sigh,
Betray the guilty lover.
I know my doom must be despair,
Thou wilt not e'er console me;
But, oh, Maria, hear my prayer,
For pity's sake forgive me.

The music of thy tongue I heard,
Nor wist while it enslaved me:
I saw thine eyes, yet nothing fear'd,
Till fear no more had saved me;
The wheeling torrent viewing,
Mid chiding borrow yields at last,
To overwhelming ruin.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

In some parts of New England chicken pie ran a close second to turkey for Thanksgiving dinner in the older days. Often both turkey and chicken pie were served at the same dinner. This seems out of place to us, but why not serve chicken pie instead of turkey?

While turkey is more or less traditional with Thanksgiving, any "extra" roast or meat with an abundance of vegetables makes a satisfactory dinner. A fresh ham, boned and stuffed, is a delicious substitute, and no one will sigh for the absent bird.

"Very good thing is veal pie, when you know the lady as made it," approved Mr. Weller. So why not serve a meal of veal and ham pie instead of turkey?

Then there is the crown of lamb or pork quite compatible with a gala day, and of course roast goose or duck or guinea hen. However, I prefer these for Christmas or New Year's dinner simple and old-fashioned in its appeal, if you would express the original spirit of the day.

Chicken Pie

Two year-old chickens, 1 small onion 2 sprigs parsley, 2 tablespoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 cup cream, 2 tablespoons butter, short crust, 4 hard boiled eggs, 4 pound mushrooms.

Clean and disjoint chickens. Put in a kettle with onion, parsley and boiling water to completely cover. Simmer until tender, about one hour. When chicken has cooked half an hour, add salt and pepper. Remove from broth when tender and strain stock. There should be 4 cups. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add broth and cream, stirring constantly.

Line a deep broad pan with short biscuit dough rolled 1/4 inch thick. Arrange chicken and hard boiled eggs cut in slices and mushrooms in the pan. Do not use the wings, backbones or necks in the pie. The chicken and the gravy should be cool. Add gravy to cover. Fill top crust over pie, pinch edges together and bake half an hour in a hot oven.

If a large pan that has no table rack is used, pin a neatly folded napkin around the pan before sending to the table.

The crust is made as follows:

Chicken Pie Crust

Four cups of flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 cup lard and butter mixed, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg yolk, water to make a soft dough.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Rub in shortening with tips of fingers. Beat yolk of egg slightly with 1 cup water and cut into flour mixture. Add enough more water to make a soft dough.

Divide and roll on a well-floured board to 1/4 inch thickness. Line pan. Roll out top crust. Cut four wide dashes through the dough. These must be cut wide enough to allow for the rising dough. The steam must be allowed to escape from a chicken pie while baking.

Dampen the lower crust of the pie and press the upper crust firmly against it. Roll and crimp the edge just as for ordinary pie. If a glazed crust is desired brush over the top with white of the egg.

Ceal and Ham Pie

Two pounds lean veal, 1 pound ham, 2 hard boiled eggs, 1 pint sweetbreads, 1 lemon, 1 tablespoon minced parsley.

GUESS AGAIN, PLEASE.

Nog dear reader, this isn't the stump of an enormous tree. It is "The Devil's Tower," a huge monolith, which is one of the many scenic wonders along the famous Custer Battlefield Highway through South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana.

1/2 teaspoon pepper, stock, short crust, 1/2 cup lard and butter mixed, 1 egg yolk, water to make a soft dough.

Cut veal and ham into pieces two inches square. Blanch in boiling water until tender. Blanch and parboil sweetbreads. Cut in slices. Prepare a crust as in preceding recipe and line baking dish. Add meat drained from stock. Arrange veal and ham, eggs cut in slices and sweetbreads in layers, seasoning with grated lemon rind, salt, pepper, nutmeg and fine herbs as each layer is added. Thicken the stock with flour and water, stirred to a smooth paste and pour over meat. Pile the meat high in the center of the dish. Make a hole in the center of the top crust and fit over pie. Press the edges together and crimp. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

Veal and chicken are combined if only one chicken is used. This makes an economical but delicious pie.

Christmas Gifts FROM ODDS AND ENDS

If you can knit or crochet, you probably have made many odds and ends of wool in your sewing basket that you can utilize for Christmas gifts.

Wool tassels are seen on some of the smartest frocks this season and are made by winding wool over a square or any-shaped piece of cardboard, in the manner shown in the sketch. Long fringe is added on the under side and the ends shaped, or left straight as you may desire.

These may be made of just two colors of wool, or of any number. Crocheted flowers are also quite popular for corsage bouquets and hat trimmings as well as for ornaments on sofa cushions, table covers or curtains.

DEFECTIVE HEARING
BY far the largest number of cases of defective hearing result from the conditions brought about by the inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nose and pharynx. Adenoid in the nasopharynx is another chief cause. Especially is this true in the time of childhood and youth.

Parents are advised not to overlook that little ailment in their children, in which the ears are often affected and just as often wholly neglected. Other contributing causes are influenza, the measles and typhoid fever, and such constitutional diseases as rheumatism.

BALLOON TIRES FOR ROUGH ROADS

New Air-Cushion Design Is Joy In Riding Over Bumpy Roads

AKRON, O., Nov. 10.—If you have ever run your tires low to cushion your body against road bumps, you will appreciate the latest tire innovation which some automobile manufacturers have already adopted.

It is the air-cushion, or balloon tire. This is a tire with large cross section, thin side walls and containing low air pressure. Its purpose is to produce better riding comfort without entailing a loss in any of the advantages already experienced in auto driving.

More than a year ago, this problem was taken in hand by the tire engineers of this city, with James E. Hale of the Firestone company one of the pioneers. They recognized the greater cushioning and protection against vibrations demanded lower air pressure, and still support the same weight, required greater air chambers. Hence the larger cross section.

A 33x5 tire, for instance, is increased to a cross section of 7.3 inches. And the original pressure of 65 pounds is decreased to 35 pounds, to carry the same weight.

But the lower air pressure demanded greater flexibility of the tire carcass, especially the side walls, because of the greater road contact. The many-ply cord of today would be too stiff and would crack under such requirements.

Advantages of Cords

At the same time, it was recognized, lower air pressure lowered the bursting stresses on the carcass. Therefore a thinner wall with less plies was possible.

That was just what was wanted to produce greater flexibility and greater cushioning effect. Thus, the thin-walled, low-pressure, large-section tire is just as effective against blow-outs and just as durable, as the more heavily constructed cord tire.

Hale is enthusiastic over the advantages the new tire affords. Because there is no necessity to slacken down for road bumps or ruts, he says, a higher average speed is practiced with this than with the older form of tire.

"Road surface irregularities are toned down and almost obliterated," he explained. "Everything is cushioned so that there are no sharp shocks or jolts and one does not have to water the road to put his body in a tense condition to get over the rough spots nor be worried about being tossed up from the seat. He does not have to pick out all the good places in a rough road because it makes little difference whether he takes them or not."

Fuel Costs No Higher

"Chuck holes are near so dangerous, the sharp jolt being softened because the wheels are brought more gradually to rest and the action absorbed. As for fuel consumption, tests have shown that the balloon tires take no more, if not less, than regular tires.

"Naturally steering is affected to a degree at very low speeds, but under other conditions the new tires actually favor better control. In crossing the streets car tracks at a near parallel angle there is no deflection; the reaction on the steering wheel from jolts and obstructions is also much less pronounced; while the soft wide contact of the tires tends to keep them true without effort.

"Better control is also noticeable under difficult traffic conditions. The larger area of the tread contact with the road, combined with the greatly increased lingal total of non-slip and traction results. In rough going this is particularly true because there is contact at all times, the tire being so flexible that it rolls and folds over rough surfaces maintaining a uniformly larger area of contact."

SPEEDERS ACT AS TRAFFIC COPS

Kansas City Has Unique Plan for Reckless Drivers, Substitute for Fines

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Nov. 10.—Traffic offenders serving as policemen? A bit unusual to be sure. Yet they are doing it here.

For Police Judge H. S. Roberts is converting reckless drivers into careful drivers by teaching them the policeman's side of it.

Instead of fining or jailing traffic-law violators, Judge Roberts is sending them to school. Persons convicted in his court, are required to attend classes so many nights.

The traffic code is studied, and lessons are given in careful driving. Pupils are required to become letter-perfect in the city ordinances before they are graduated and permitted to resume driving.

And a part of the course is traffic regulation. Offenders are required to go to busy downtown corners and handle vehicular and pedestrian traffic for periods ranging from half an hour to an hour.

Seeing the danger of speeding, "cutting in" and other forms of careless driving gives Judge Roberts' pupils a new conception of the order of things. "Believe me," says one young man who has just finished his course, "I'm going to help the police all I can in the future."

"Hereafter I'll drive slowly and carefully in the future at all times, I learned a lot out there on that corner. And paying a fine wouldn't have taught me half as much."

So their friends and hangers-on won't jeer at his pupils, Judge Roberts always arranges to have a policeman on hand on the corners where the fellows are doing time.

EARTH SHIFTING GRADUALLY EQUALIZE HIGH, LOW LANDS SAYS SCIENTIST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Mountains are lighter than valleys. Submerged lands are heavier, per area, than the upland plains.

Such is the decision of William Bowie, chief of Uncle Sam's geodesy experts, whose job it is to study variations of gravity. It is the effort of old Mother Earth to adjust changing pressures, due to these varying weights, that causes earthquakes, he says.

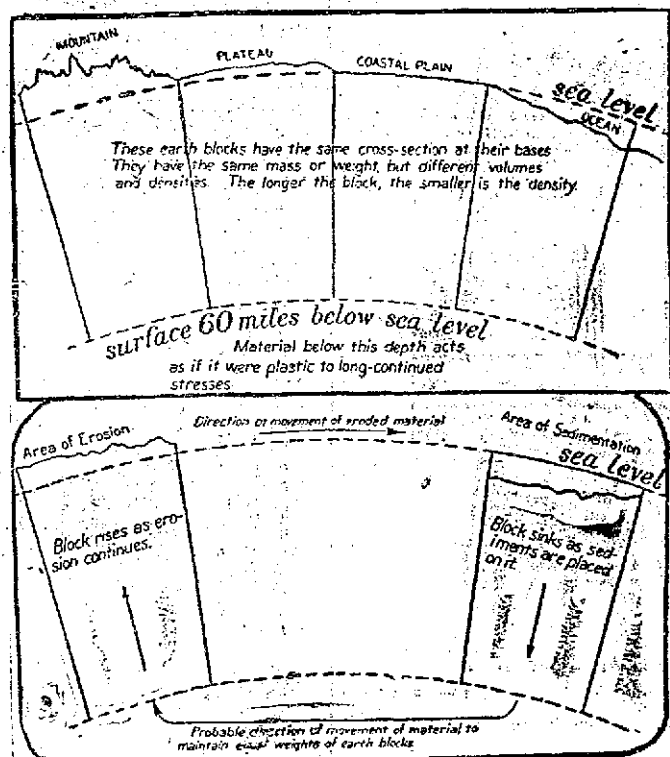

Bowie pictures the earth's crust as a covering, approximately sixty miles thick, resting on a central mass which, instead of being molten, as generally believed, has at least the rigidity of steel.

This crust he conceives as a mass of vertical columns, comprising respectively mountains, plateaus, coastal plains and submerged lands. At a given time these are in a state of perfect equilibrium.

But natural changes disturb this equilibrium. Freezing and thawing, rainfall and melting snow erode and wash away hundreds of millions of tons from the mountains and highlands. These are carried out into the ocean and deposited as sediment on the ocean bed.

This accumulating weight on the ocean bottom slowly forces the columns of crust downward. The compensating movement which must take place is an upward movement of the mountain column, carried through the solid central mass, which is plastic, to long-continued stresses, as in steel or glass.

Whenever quick shifts result, through some weakness or fault in the upper crust or between two clashing weight-columns, then there is an earthquake. Normally, however, the adjustment in weight proceeds slowly, practically without tremor, the result being that mountain, plateau and plain maintaining apparently unchanged altitudes, being forced upward from below as they are worn away at the top. They are, Bowie says, simply floating on the central mass, the lighter columns floating highest, the heavier sections lower or submerged.

Diagrams illustrating Bowie's theory of (above) identical weight-columns of earth resting on a central mass, and (below) of earth shifting to keep these columns of equal weight.

Every few millions of years, however, there comes a different readjustment, in which new continents and new mountain ranges are thrown up out of the ocean's depths and existing continents and mountains sink beneath the seas.

A submerged column, weighted down through the centuries by accumulating sediment, sometimes as much as 20,000 or 30,000 feet in depth, presses slowly downward into a zone of greater heat. The expansion which results finally culminates in an upheaval which throws up a whole new continent or mountain range.

Jap Quake "Slight"

"The Himalayas, the highest mountains in the world, were once below the sea," Bowie explains, citing the power of such subterranean expansion. "Nearly all mountain areas were at one time areas of heavy sedimentation. This process of heavy sedimentation is now going on at the mouth of the Congo, in the Indo-Gangetic region, and about the La Plata estuary."

Midland Trail

Going west from Ashland traffic will find paved road to the Carter County line. Next comes one mile of waterbound macadam in good condition, then eleven miles of graded earth road (excellent in dry weather) ending at Grayson to Olive Hill. Now grade from Olive Hill to Morehead has been opened, a few minor detours still necessary. From Mt. Sterling through Winchester, Versailles, Frankfort, Shelbyville to Louisville, road is in good condition.

Mayo Trail

South of Catlettsburg to the mouth of Laurel Creek is under construction and impassable. Detour via Cannonsburg to Laurel Creek. Finished grade to Louisa in excellent condition in dry weather. Construction under way between Louisa and Pikeville, not advisable to try to go beyond Louisa. Pike County—Pikeville-Williamstown road open to traffic with exception of about 7 miles that is under construction. Old road around construction is passable. Entire road in good condition for dry weather traffic.

Greenup County—Ashland-Gretna road completed to Russell, can reach Gretna by taking 2 or 3 minor detours.

Lewis County—Caneburg-Maysville road under construction, extremely rough, but can be traveled. Estill County—Richmond-Irvine road under construction. Detour at gates placed along construction.

Rowell and Wolfe Counties—Winchester-Campton road under construction between Clay and Campton. No detours from Clay City to Stanton and points east. Road passable only in dry weather via Campton Junction, Geneva, Pine Ridge, and Campton. Road passable at all times between Winchester and Clay City.

Blue Grass Region

Henry County—Shelbyville-New Castle road being surfaced and drainage structures built between Eminence and New Castle. Detour east or west at these points. Detour in poor condition.

Washington County—The Springfield-Bradstown road is under construction for 9.3 miles, road closed. Detour from Springfield or Bradstown via Bloomfield.

Anderson County—Lawrenceburg-Versailles road under construction by way of Clifton to Lawrenceburg. Local traffic use Wild Cat Pike. Detour signs at all road intersections.

Henry, Carroll, Trimble Counties—Construction work under way on the Campbellburg-Carrollton road. Grading and drainage structure road closed two miles north of Campbellburg. Detour east of this point. Detour very poor.

Marion County—Lebanon-Danville road under construction. Detour via Springfield and Perryville.

Jessamine County—Hartsville-Lexington road under construction—closed from Brooklyn Bridge to a point 5 miles north of Wilmore. Heavy trucks from Danville, Hartsville, Lexington and Louisville detour via Nicholasville, Camp Nelson, Buena Vista and Burgin. Light traffic detour via Munday's Landing, High Bridge and Wilmore. From Nicholasville to Lexington go via South Elkhorn.

DOUBLE CHRISTENING IN FORD CAR FAMILY BRING 2 NEW NAMES

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 19.—There's been a double christening in the Ford car family.

When the newest member, a smart sedan with two doors, arrived on the scene, announcement of which is just made, there came with it the question of a name.

For several days the folks just couldn't decide what to call the baby of the family until, from quite an unexpected source there came the happy suggestion:

"Let's call it Tudor."

And Tudor it was christened, a name quite in keeping with the aristocratic appearance of the new car. "How about renaming the other sedan?" asked some one, and then came this reply:

"We might call it the four-door Ford or—Ah, that's it! Ford or—Forder. Simple and expressive, isn't it?"

So we have two Ford cars with brand new names, the Tudor and the Forder.

Got a Double Parole?

FRANKFORT, Nov. 19.—Leslie Hill, slayer of a Perry county negro, at Hazard, was the recipient last week of a double parole from Gov. Morrow. It was learned that he received one Saturday night, releasing him from his 15 year sentence for manslaughter, but he was informed by the authorities that its only benefit would be to permit his starting the sooner on his one year term for escaping from the Owen county road camp June 16, 1921.

The end of colonization, it is estimated, will be reached in about 200 years' time.

There are about 18,000 more persons of Welsh origin in the country than in 1910.

Of humble origin, born in a small Norwegian village, Knute K. Rockne, nationally known as the famous football coach of Notre Dame, lays his first bid to early fame on the fact that he was born in the same town as another famous American citizen, the late Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota.

Rockne, known to all lovers of football as "Rock", was born in Voss, Norway, March 1, 1888, and came to the United States in 1893, his parents moving to Chicago.

Rockne spent the greater part of his life, until his entrance to Notre Dame, in that city.

Rockne was educated in Chicago grade and high schools in what was then known as the Northwest division. The name of the high school has since been changed to Tully.

Upon graduation from high school, Rockne saw no possibility of fulfilling his desire for a higher education and began to look around for some kind of a job that would make both ends meet.

The call of the water was strong in his Norwegian blood and the summer of 1906, the year he graduated from high school, together with a group of high school and college students, he worked on various boats plying Lake Michigan.

While on the boats Rockne served as fireman. A couple of months of the life of a sailor was enough, and Rockne with several chums drifted to the wheat fields of the west, working as threshing hands.

Seeing the necessity of getting a regular job if he was to make any progress, Rockne entered the United States Railway Mail Service in the fall of 1906 and served for four years on runs in and out of Chicago.

The desire for a college education was constantly with Rockne. During the four years he served in the mail service he practiced thrift and economy. In 1910 he had saved enough money to make him feel certain that he could get by his freshman year. He entered Notre Dame, deciding to let the rest of his course take care of itself.
